VOL. XXII

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1915.

NO. 22

ENTERTAINMENT BY WOMAN'S CLUB AND FRATERNAL ORDERS

Next Friday evening the Woman's Club of this city, assisted by members of local fraternal orders will give a dramatic and musical entertainment in Metropolitan Hall. It is given for the purpose of raising money in aid of the book fund for the city free public library.

For the information of many local people, the construction of the new city free public library on the civic center is being paid for by the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The site, the care of the grounds and the librarian will be paid for out of funds raised from city taxes.

Many of our citizens have offered to donate books, and this entertainment is given to aid in that movement to make the library as complete as it is possible to make it.

The entertainment will be a good one and will be followed with dancing. The music will be furnished through courtesy of the Royal Theatre.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

Several factory site seekers visited this city this week.

The local schools will be closed next Monday on account of Memorial Day.

Mrs. T. Bresnan and son, Herman, of Santa Rosa, former residents of this city, are local visitors to-day.

The local school children will have eight weeks' summer vacation this year, from June 11th to August 9th.

There is a dangerous cave-in on the new bay shore county road, near the first tunnel above this city, that the county fathers should repair.

Frank Robinson of this city has passed an examination before the state board of pharmacy and is now a registered assistant pharmacist.

Mrs. Annie F. Plymire, her mother and sister of Oakland, and Mrs. Ryder and young child of San Jose, were in this city Thursday visiting Mrs. A. Hynding.

The local steel works will have as guests on June 12th 150 delegates to the convention of National Engineers and Electricians in San Francisco at that time.

Herbert S. Woodman, who has been in the hospital service of the United States navy for nearly a year, has been transferred from Guam to Olongapo, Philippine Islands.

Local residents have lately purchased new automobiles—A. McSweeney, a Studebaker touring car; A. P. Scott, an Overland touring car, and James T. Wallace, a Reo touring car.

Don't forget the grand picnic given by Tippecanoe Social Club at Millett's Park, Colma, Sunday afternoon, June 20, 1915. Good union music. Valuable gate prizes. Admission 25 cents.

Dr. F. S. Dolley performed an important operation in this city last week. Part of the backbone of a patient suffering with tuberculosis of the spine was removed and replaced with a V-shaped piece of shin bone.

Margaret Costello, formerly of this city, has been arrested, charged with stealing a gold bracelet and a pair of gold cuff buttons last Sunday in this city. She appeared before Justice Davis in San Bruno yesterday for preliminary examination and will be held in the county jail for the present until a more thorough investigation can be made by the police officers, as she has accused a former resident of this city of having received the stolen articles.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SWART TO PROSECUTE AUTO DRIVER

After investigating the automobile accident at Beresford crossing last Tuesday which cost the life of George Brooks, District Attorney Franklin Swart says that he will prosecute Harry Gallatin, driver of the wrecked car. George Crofton, one of the injured men, is not expected to live.

"Gallatin was under the influence of liquor. His recklessness resulted in the death of Brooks and injury to his four other passengers," said Swart. "Gallatin is now at the county jail. He will be prosecuted for manslaughter and for driving a motor car while under the influence of liquor. Either is a felony charge."

Edward Spohn, another passenger, is in jail. He will be charged with disturbing the peace. Other members of the party will be arrested on the same charge, as all are said to have been under the influence of liquor.

The Gallatin car struck a pole while crossing the railroad tracks in broad daylight.

SOUTH CITY MERCHANTS LOSE.

The South City Merchants were defeated in a very slow game which was full of errors. The game was a fighting and arguing affair from the first to the last inning.

The local boys started out in the first inning very well, but the blowup came and a couple of errors followed and there went the old ball game.

Guenley, the South City Merchants' crack pitcher, did very well. He struck out fifteen men, but still it was in vain.

The score sheet will show that it was an off day for the locals, and they have determined to make up, for Sunday morning at 10 o'clock they will play the fast D. N. & E. Walters of San Francisco and are going to win.

So come and see a good game and root for the home boys.

NATIVE SONS ADVANCE KNOWLEDGE OF STATE HISTORY

The generous patriotism of the Native Sons of the Golden West in supporting fellowships in Pacific coast history at the university of California is bearing excellent fruit.

So much success has been achieved by C. E. Chapman, formerly one of these Native Sons fellows, in his teaching this past year that he has been promoted to be assistant professor of California history. This is rapid advancement, for it is only a year ago President Wheeler telegraphed to the grand parlor, in session at Los Angeles, of Dr. Chapman's appointment as instructor—the first man to devote his whole time to teaching California history.

For two years previously Dr. Chapman held a Native Sons traveling fellowship. In Seville, in Spain, he made valuable discoveries concerning California history, in the Archivo de las Indias. Also he went to the island of Majorca, in 1913, to represent the state and the Native Sons at the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Father Junipero Serra, founder of the Franciscan missions of California.

Now, moreover, Professor Chapman has been granted the degree of doctor of philosophy by the university of California. His thesis, soon to be published, is on "The Preliminaries of the Spanish Advance from Sonora to California, 1687-1773." He is writing, also, a volume on "California During the Spanish Period," based upon his original researches in Spain.

But the history of California must be studied in California as well as in Spain, and Dr. Chapman regards it as part of his new duties to visit and become acquainted with as many as possible of the Native Sons' parlors. Already he has spoken before several of them. Besides his regular lecture course in the university, he is to offer advanced work in California history next year. So hereafter those who go out from the university to teach in the high schools can teach history with adequate understanding of the part California has played in American life.

What Dr. Chapman has accomplished, and the valuable work of historical investigation being done by the other fellows maintained by the Native Sons, demonstrates, the university believes, the wisdom of the far-sighted generosity of the Native Sons in stimulating the study and teaching of the unique history of their own incomparable state.

MARK TWAIN ON BABIES.

Speeches were made at a banquet held in Chicago in honor of General Grant shortly after his return from his tour around the world. To this company, met in honor of a great soldier, and largely composed of soldiers and Civil War veterans, Mark Twain talked of "The Babies." He said:

We have not all had the good fortune to be ladies. We have not been generals, or poets, or statesmen, but when the toasts work down to the babies, we stand on common ground—for we have all been babies. It's a shame that for a thousand years the world's banquets have utterly ignored the baby—as if he didn't amount to anything.

You soldiers all know that when that little fellow arrived at family headquarters you had to hand in your resignation. He took entire command. You became his lackey—his mere body servant—and you had to stand around, too.

He treated you with every sort of insolence and disrespects—and the bravest of you didn't dare to say a word. You could face the death storm of Donelson and Vicksburg, and give back blow for blow, but when he clawed your whiskers and pulled your hair and twisted your nose you had to take it.

When the thunders of war were sounding in your ears you set your face toward the batteries and advanced with a steady tread, but when he turned on the terrors of his war-whoop—you advanced in the other direction, and mighty glad of the chance, too. When he called for soothing syrup, did you venture to throw out any remarks about certain services being unbecoming an officer and a gentleman? No. You got up and got it. If the baby proposed to take a walk at his usual hour, 2 o'clock in the morning, didn't you rise promptly and remark—with a mental additional which would not improve a Sunday school book much, that it was the very thing you were about to propose yourself?

Oh, you were under good discipline, and as you went faltering up and down the room in your undress uniform you not only prattled baby-talk, but even tuned up your martial voices and tried to sing "Rock-a-bye Baby in the Tree Top," for instance. What a spectacle for an army of the Tennessee—and what an affliction for the neighbors, too, for it is not everybody within a mile around that likes military music at 3 in the morning.

Among the three or four million cradles now rocking in the land are some which this nation would preserve for ages, as sacred things, if we could know which ones they are. In one of these cradles the unconscious Farragut of the future is at this moment teething and putting in a word of dead earnest, inarticulate, but perfectly justifiable profanity over it, too. In another the future renowned astronomer is blinking at the shining milky way with but a liquid interest, poor little chap! and wondering what has become of the other one they call the wet-nurse. In another the future great historian is lying—and doubtless will continue to lie—until his earthly mission is ended.

CALIFORNIA INVENTORS.

The following patents were just issued to California clients, reported by D. Swift & Co., patent lawyers, Washington, D. C., who will furnish copies of any patent for 10 cents apiece to our readers:

Harry E. Aine, Richmond, machine for winding pipes or pipe coverings; A. C. Anthony, San Francisco, toy gun; Charles L. Baender, Oakland, carpet sweeping appliance; Guy M. Bean, Los Angeles, oil burning locomotive furnace; Robert N. Diel, Oil-fields, exercising apparatus; Howard Eckel, Los Angeles, pumping mechanism for vacuum cleaner; William F. Green, Modesto, water gage; Henry G. Kneif, Napa, apparatus for applying oil to road surfaces; James K. Kendrick, Willows, mine catcher; William A. McLaren, Pasadena, hose standard; P. Ostenberg, Los Gatos, internal combustion engine; V. V. Pittman, Selma, cooler; C. D. Randall, Reward, portable drilling rig; E. M. Rayburn, Sausalito, speed changing gear; Charles B. Van Vorst, Los Angeles, mattress and cushion.

A DOCTOR'S STORY.

Mrs. Rogers lay in bed, bandaged and blistered from foot to head, bandaged and blistered from head to toe; Mrs. Rogers was very low. Bottle and saucer, spoon and cup, On the table stood bravely up; Physic of high and low degree, Calomel, catnip, boneset tea; Everything a body could bear, Excepting light and water and air.

I opened the blinds; the day was bright, And God gave Mrs. Rogers some light. I opened the windows; the day was fair, And God gave Mrs. Rogers some air. Bottles and blisters, powders and pills, Catnip, boneset, syrup and squills. Drugs and medicines, high and low, I threw the mass far as I could throw, "What are you doing?" my patient cried. "Frightening Death," I coolly replied. "You are crazy!" a visitor said:

I flung a bottle at her head. Deacon Rogers he came to me: "Wife is coming round," said he. "I really think she will worry through; She scolds me just as she used to do. All the people have pointed and slurred, All the neighbors have had their word; 'Twas better to perish," some of 'em say, Than to be cured in such an irregular way."

"Your wife," said I, "hath God's good care, And His remedies—light and water and air. All the doctors, beyond a doubt, Couldn't have cured Mrs. Rogers without."

The deacon smiled and bowed his head: "Then your bill is nothing," he said. "God's be the glory, as you say; God bless you, doctor; good day! good day!"

If ever I doctor that woman again, I'll give her medicine made by men.

A Bird in the Hand.

Young Barnes had married contrary to his father's wishes. Meeting his parent soon afterward, the father said angrily:

"Well, young man, I have made my will and cut you off with a dollar."

"I am very sorry, father," said the youth contritely; "you don't happen to have the dollar with you, do you?"

EDWIN FORREST AND "WHITE CLOUD."

Many years ago, while Edwin Forrest was playing an engagement in a western theatre, "White Cloud" and a number of other Indian chiefs were on their return from Washington. Stopping in the town over night, they were conducted to the theatre to see the great American tragedian. Mr. Forrest was then in the prime of life, his voice being up to the maximum of a stentor. The play on that evening was "Metamora."

"White Cloud" and his band of warriors were accommodated with seats in a stage box. The theatre was crowded and it was very evident that the auditors were anxious to observe what effect the performance would have on the Simon pure children of the forest. The play proceeded, and although the Indians could not understand a single word that was said, yet they appeared to be much interested, occasionally giving to one a satisfactory grunt. After a while they became rather uneasy, which seemed to be simultaneous among them all. This was more apparent when the Indian war whoop came from behind the scenes.

The eyes of the audience were upon "White Cloud," who two or three times grasped the tomahawk in his belt. The other warriors did so likewise. The play proceeded. They looked at each other with anxiety; their eyes indexed the fact that their "souls were in arms." Presently, Metamora, with uplifted tomahawk, rushed upon the stage, and when he gave that war whoop, which no one but Forrest could do, the Indians could remain in their seats no longer. Forrest gave a second and a shrill whoop, whereupon "White Cloud" and his band, joining in full chorus, sprang upon the stage, and, brandishing their tomahawks and glittering knives, rushed toward Metamora.

Forrest was apparently dumbfounded for a moment, but he soon took in the situation, and, finding that the real Indians were on his side, ready to do or die in his behalf, he felt that he had achieved one of his greatest triumphs in the profession he so much loved during his eventful life.

And the Cook Is a Bear.

"Every one in our family is some kind of animal," said Jimmie to the amazed preacher.

"Why, you shouldn't say that!" the good man exclaimed.

"Well," said Jimmie, "mother's a dear, the baby is mother's little lamb, I'm the kid and dad's the goat."

"Is there any mail for John or me?" inquired the general delivery patron.

"You're strangers to me," retorted the postal clerk. "Do you suppose I can tell people's names by looking at them?"

"I don't see that it makes any difference if I am a stranger. Look and see if there is any mail for John or me—John Orr Mee."

He got his letter from a much subdued postal clerk.

me and the other one wants me to go lame so he can sue for damages."

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

GOOD FISH SALADS.

IT is always a good plan to keep a supply of canned goods in the house for emergency dinners or luncheons. Canned salmon heads the list of these supplies, and if you have on hand some cold mashed potatoes you can easily prepare an attractive dish.

Mix the potatoes and salmon thoroughly and then mix with the whole either a mayonnaise, a boiled or French dressing. Chopped celery, pickles, hard boiled eggs and beets add to the taste and attractiveness of the dish. Heap the salad on a platter and garnish with lettuce or any pretty green leaves.

Another good salmon salad: One can of salmon chopped fine, four hard boiled eggs and eight lettuce leaves. Mix these with a salad dressing made of one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of ground mustard, a pinch of pepper, one pound of sugar, one pound of butter, one pound of flour, one egg yolk and one-third cupful of vinegar. Heat the butter and blend the dry ingredients. Then add the egg yolk and vinegar. Cook in a double boiler until it thickens. Serve the salad on lettuce leaves.

Halibut Salad.

Break cold cooked halibut into convenient pieces, removing all skin, bone and fat. Marinate with tarragon or spiced vinegar and set to one side for an hour. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise or sauce tartare.

Herring Salad.

Take three herrings cleaned and picked to pieces, three apples, three boiled potatoes, one-half cupful of mixed nuts, a small piece of cooked veal, one pickle, a little onion, a little pepper, a little sugar, a few capers and four hard boiled eggs. Chop all fine, use the yolks of the eggs with a little vinegar and mix.

Shrimp Salad.

This should be served in tomato or cucumber cups. The shrimps are first cleaned and then a French dressing in which vinegar predominates, poured over them about half an hour before serving. The tomato cups are prepared in the usual way, without cooking, but if cucumber cups or baskets are used the short, thick sort should be selected, which are pared and cut in halves crosswise, the seeds scooped out, before the cups are set in a steamer to be steamed until tender. They must be thoroughly chilled before they are filled with the shrimps and a teaspoonful of thick mayonnaise put on the top of each. Serve on a bed of lettuce hearts or watercress and send around toasted crackers with the course.

South San Francisco Land and Improvement Co.

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to every one by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people; an extensive and fine residence district, where every one may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

South San Francisco is on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller & Co. Paint Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, the Pacific Coast Steel Company, the Pacific Car and Equipment Company, the Standard Corrugated Pipe Works, the Shaw-Batcher Pipe Works, Enterprise Foundry, Prest-o-Lite Works and the American Marble and Mosaic Works. The Meese-Gottfried Machinery Company of San Francisco has purchased land for its works. South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Services for Trinity Sunday.

Sunday school, with baptismal service, at 10 a.m.

Morning prayer and sermon at 11. Text from second chapter of Epistle to the Ephesians, verses 19 to 22, "So then ye are no more strangers and sojourners, but ye are fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God, being built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus Himself being the chief corner stone; in whom each several building, fitly framed together, groweth into a holy temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are builded together for a habitation of God in the Spirit."

Hymns as follows:

383. Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty!

Early in the morning our song shall rise to Thee: Holy, Holy, Holy! merciful and mighty!

God in Three Persons, blessed Trinity!

464. The spacious firmament on high, With all the blue ethereal sky, And spangled heavens, a shining frame,

Their great Original proclaim. The unweary sun from day to day, Does his Creator's power display,

And publishes to every land The work of an Almighty Hand, 459. Oh, worship the King, all glorious above!

Oh, gratefully sing His power and His love!

385. Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord, God of Hosts, eternal King, By the heavens and earth adored;

Angels and archangels sing, Chanting everlastingly To the blessed Trinity.

The Mystery of the Trinity.

As the ages pass by, men add to the thinking of those who pass with them. Little by little they feel down deeper into the revelations God has flooded them with on every hand. They have seen some of the reason within certain of the truths upon which all character-building religion rests. Other truths have thus far shown themselves to be deeper down than the plumb-line of reason can fathom. We reach for truth as far as we can with reason, but where reason leaves off, faith begins; and with faith we follow the Trinity. We know the Trinity to be truth, because around it clings the doctrine of living Christianity. Where bodies of well-meaning people have departed from this great catholic doctrine, decay has gone with them. But where men have built their belief around the Trinity, wonderful life and missionary activity have been theirs. But we cannot explain the Trinity. We cannot demonstrate its basis with reason. It sounds like a dodging of the issue to say so. But it is not dodging the issue. We cannot dodge what we never have reached. The only difficulty about explaining the Trinity is that we cannot reach that far with our human minds. All we can do is use the doctrine and let any explanations come when they will. The analogy in man is the nearest we have yet come toward understanding the Trinity—the ego, the self and the power by which they operate; three separate things, yet all one—but that does not satisfy. Let us believe it because of its evident Divine worth. What is expressed by our Creed? See the catechism. "First I learn to believe in God the Father, Who made me and all the world. Secondly, in God the Son, Who hath redeemed me, and all mankind. Thirdly, in God the Holy Ghost, Who sanctifieth me and all the people of God." No man has explained how a stalk of wheat grows, yet we all feed our bodies with the staff of life. No man has explained the Trinity, but belief in it now nourishes our souls. "Only believe."

All are welcome to the services in Grace Church.

USE NEWSPAPER AS TEXTBOOK SAYS JOURNALISM PROFESSOR

The newspaper ought to be used as a high school textbook and as a laboratory—that is the doctrine which Merle Thorpe, professor of journalism in the university of Kansas, will set before his students in a new course on "High School Journalism," in the summer session of the university of California, at Berkeley from June 21st to July 31st.

He declares that current newspapers and magazines ought to be used in the classroom to vitalize the study of civics, history and English composition. Moreover, he believes the publication of papers by the high schools and colleges exceedingly useful training. He recommends development of helpful relations between the high school and the local paper, already existing in many California towns, by which the community may be kept in touch, through contributions from the school, with the work of the school and with new developments in education and science.

In this summer session course Professor Thorpe will advise high school teachers also as to how to write useful contributions to educational and technical journals.

Two other courses are to be given this summer by Professor Thorpe for those who want to make newspaper work their business in life—one on the materials, methods and organization of the newspaper, and another on editorial theory and practice. J. Melvin Lee lecturer on journalism in New York university, is to give a course on advertising, and to help Professor Thorpe supervise the Summer Session Californian, issued by the students during the summer. Besides practical experience on this paper, the best of the students are to have opportunity to help with the publicity work for the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

This is the second summer Professor Thorpe has taught journalism at Berkeley. He is known as one of the most successful teachers of the subject in America, for to varied experience as city editor, editor and Washington correspondent he has added a number of years of teaching and lecturing. He has just published a 400-page book, "The Coming Newspaper," in which he discusses the methods and ethics of newspaper-making, news-gathering and handling, advertising, circulation, administration and editorial direction.

COUNTY AND EXPERT ACCOUNTANT COMPROMISE

E. J. White, expert accountant, who recently claimed the discovery of a surplus of $165,000 in the treasury of San Mateo county, Wednesday ended the legal war against Auditor J. J. Shields at Redwood City by accepting District Attorney Franklin Swart's compromise offer that he cut his claims for services rendered to the county $250.

White attempted to force the auditor to pass claims for $750 for installing a new bookkeeping system, another for $340 for work on the school fund account and a third for $80 in connection with the discovery of the surplus.

By the terms of the agreement the $750 claim is cut down to $500, and the mandamus suit against the auditor brought by White will be dismissed.

LEW FIELDS IN "OLD DUTCH"

At the Royal Theatre on Sunday, May 30th, the World Film Corporation will present the five-part photoplay, "Old Dutch," with Lew Fields as the star.

The story relates how Ludwig Streusand and his daughter, Violet, are living in New York. Ludwig is known as "Old Dutch," and after years of hard study and labor he completes his invention of what he calls the telophone, a device which, when attached to a telephone, enables the speaker, while looking through the telophone, to see the party at the other end of the wire. He goes to John Rockmorgan with his invention, and, after proving its worth, Rockmorgan agrees to finance his invention and gives him a check for five thousand dollars on account.

"Old Dutch" and his daughter have had rather a hard time of it. Now that his invention is a success, he feels that the best thing to do is to go away to Palm Beach with her for a vacation. To escape the publicity arising through the invention of the telophone, he also thinks it wise to assume another name so as to avoid being questioned and annoyed about his invention. He arrives at a Palm Beach hotel and registers under the name of John Mueller and daughter, and settles down for a period of ease and comfort.

Harold, John Rockmorgan's son, has also gone to the hotel, and when he gets his first glimpse of Violet, true love awakens in his heart. They meet and she is happy in her first affair. In the meantime, we see the vaudeville team of Bings and Bings discharged from the theatre in which they are playing on account of their act being so bad. They are in desperate straits and the idea comes to the male member of the team to go to a fashionable hotel in Florida and by hook and crook get some of the money of the millionaires. "Old Dutch" has become a great favorite with the children of the hotel and on the day that Bings and Bings arrive there, while playing with the children, he loses his pocketbook. It is the good luck of Mr. Bings to be the first to see the pocketbook and before registering, he goes through the contents and sees the check made out to Ludwig Streusand for five thousand dollars. When he finds there is no such man stopping there, he boldly signs the name of Ludwig Streusand and daughter. When Joubert, the hotel proprietor, learns that such an illustrious person is staying with him, he immediately begins to give receptions and balls in his honor. "Old Dutch" is so

AS TO BRAINS.

Brains are rare. To be sure, most men have that beneath their skulls which prompts them to go in when it rains, and to refrain from accepting wooden money. Many can cast up sums correctly, and tell at a glance the difference between a bill of lading and a dispossess notice. That is not what I mean by brains.

Once in a while, but rarely as often as twice in a while, you run across a man who has that quality of gray matter, those unusual convolutions, that peculiar activity of cerebration, which result in thought.

It may be that such a man is in your employ. If so, do not let him escape. You can hire brains, but you cannot buy them, and if their owner goes away, he will take them with him, and you may never look upon his like again.—Exchange.

SPECTACULAR LIFE OF CHAS. FROHMAN
He Was the Napoleon of American Managers

Charles Frohman, who went down on the Lusitania, was the most enterprising of American theatrical managers and was a trust in himself, being proprietor and manager of the Empire, Criterion, Lyceum, Garrick, Savoy and Knickerbocker theaters of New York and of the Duke of York's, Comedy, Globe and Adelphi theaters of London. He was also manager of the Vaudeville Theater, in London.

Frohman began his career as a ticket seller at Hooley's Theater, Brooklyn, while he worked in the daytime in the office of the New York Daily Graphic. In 1877 he began his career as a manager by taking West the play of "Our Boys." In 1878-80 he accompanied Haverly's Minstrels in this country and Europe.

In 1888 Frohman made his first big hit as a manager. He saw "Shenandoah" in Boston, Mass., and was at once impressed with its capabilities. He bought the rights of the play outside of Boston and put a company on the road. After this his success was assured and he soon became the theatrical Napoleon of this country. He never spared expense in salaries nor in mounting plays, and he seemed to have a positive genius for selecting plays and actors who appealed to the public.

Accompanying Charles Frohman, the American theatrical manager, on the Lusitania were Charles Klein and Justus Miles Forman, two popular American writers of plays.

That Charles Frohman, who met his death on the Lusitania, left no will disposing of his vast stage holdings, is the belief of his brother, Daniel Frohman in New York.

DANDY LYON

"What is she like?" drawled Dandy Lyon, aroused for once from his eternal affection of indifference. "For a whole month I have heard you men talk of nothing but this Minerva St. John. She must be a wonderful woman. Who is she?"

"She is a most fascinating person whom everybody admires," was the answer, "and she lives in the picturesque bijou of a house over there among those magnificent fir trees. You can see her any day galloping down by the seaside, gracefully guiding a superb black horse as fleet as Pegasus. Occasionally one sees her in the Parkaway road in an elegant open carriage, driving a pair of wild Kentuckian bays. She is always alone—an independent sort of a person, I should conclude, who has plenty of money and a firm determination to spend it in her own way."

"I despise these mannish women," growled Dandy Lyon. "But you have not described her. Is she handsome? How does she dress? Is she educated? Are her manners refined? What is her pedigree?"

"She can not be considered handsome," was the slow reply; "but she is certainly not ugly. She has a Junoesque form, but for symmetry, I fancy, no sculptor would particularly care to immortalize her features. She has great masses of reddish hair that are never smooth, a complexion that pales and flushes with every feeling, big bluish gray eyes, and a rather large but most seductive mouth. Her dress never is quite à la mode, perhaps, but it always seems part of her odd individuality; and to manifest one's character by one's costume, is the perfection of dressing, is it not? I should judge she has a fine, substantial education, and no superficial accomplishments. Her manners are those of a frank, sympathetic, self-reliant woman. She has a charming way of saying honest things, and the sweetest voice one ever heard, and she never spoils her utterances by any cant phrases. I know nothing about her pedigree; but I am sure the pride of a proud race has made her what she is."

"Is she really such a paragon?" queried Dandy Lyon cynically.

"I did not say she is a paragon," returned the other rather irritably. "I said I thought her one of the most enchanting and irresistible ladies whom I ever had the happiness to meet. If you will come to the archery party this afternoon, I will introduce you to Miss St. John."

Dandy Lyon yawned as if he were insufferably bored.

"I will come," he promised indolently.

The archery party was an exceedingly select and pleasant affair. But the finical Mr. Lyon was too affectingly indolent to manipulate arrows and bows. He preferred to sit as a spectator in a pretty rustic arbor, shut in by the odorous shadows of spicy yellow honeysuckles and musky pink roses.

Presently, looking idly across the wide lawn before him, he saw a tall, majestic girl dressed in a unique costume of silver and green. The proud poise of the superb head, the rarely graceful motion of the imperial form, the mobile countenance, interested him instantly.

"She is one

"To sit at a king's right hand,
And breed up warriors,
Or I do not discern rightly," he thought.

While he watched her, his friend came to him.

"You must vacate this fragrant and isolated nook," declared the friend. "Come! I wish to introduce you to Miss St. John."

"I do not especially desire the acquaintance of that young person," drawled Dandy Lyon. "I should like to see her, of course—just as I should like to behold any other curiosities. But I have not predilection for women who have masculine proclivities. These modern goddesses of wisdom sometimes startle one by their superabundance of intellect and wit. But if you can make me acquainted with that interesting divinity in green and silver, I shall be gratefully obliged."

The friend smiled a singular smile of suppressed amusement and compassionate indulgence, as the two sauntered toward the old oak tree beneath which stood the stately girl whom Dandy Lyon so much admired. He was decidedly nonplussed by the introduction he had solicited, for the superb girl who had attracted him was Minerva St. John, whom he had been disposed to imagine so utterly disagreeable to his fastidious tastes.

But nevertheless that introductory surprise was the beginning of an eventful and exciting acquaintance.

It would seem that the young lady had absolutely enchanted the indolent and affected devotee of the finical.

They were together often—reading, promenading, sailing, driving and lunching.

"You admire Mr. Lyon very much?" tentatively observed their common friend to her one day.

"You are mistaken if you really think that," she replied quickly, regarding him half indignantly with her large, calm eyes. "I do not admire him at all. I could never admire" — decisively emphasizing the verb—"any man who mars the manliness of his nature by assuming such absurd foppishness. What I admire in man is a masterful, moral strength and firmness and honest purposes. I despise the morbid weakness of one who affects esthetic exaggerations. I like to talk with Mr. Lyon, for he is unique in his own way and exceedingly amusing. I have an intense fondness for solving psychological puzzles," she concluded frankly.

But notwithstanding that naive confession, she averted her fair face with perplexing abruptness, and her beautifully long, dark lashes drooped suddenly over her fearless eyes.

Just then the fresh and odorous wind swept through the windows and tossed aside the drapery which concealed a picture on an easel before which she had been sitting.

She uttered a faint ejaculation of dismay, and then stood quite still—mute, defiant, but evidently confused.

But had her companion been less courteous, he would have laughed heartily, for the picture was a most remarkable caricature of that gentleman of whom they had been speaking.

There, on canvas, he was skillfully depicted with the familiar aspect of ultra-fashionable habiliments, ultra-finical attitude and ultra-affectation of disdain and languid unconcern. His tawny hair, preposterously lengthy, lay in womanish crinkles over the purple velvet collar of his dainty black coat, upon the lapel of which was fastened a yellow dandelion ridiculously exaggerated in size and color. Underneath the picture was written, in large and handsome chirography, the original lines:

"Dandelion, in its place,

Has its own peculiar grace;

But as a flower of decoration

It is a silly affectation.

From whom wears yellow, poets say,
The angel Love has winged away."

Miss St. John, instantly detecting the keen and quick observance of her visitor, looked embarrassed and distressed, and a faint suggestion of a roguish smile dimpled her reddening cheeks.

"I did not propose to exhibit this ridiculous production," she said, trying to speak carelessly as she hurriedly again adjusted the concealing curtain.

Her companion did not respond, but regarded her with the quizzing expression that frequently irritates a frank nature to make unnecessary acknowledgements.

"I did not, indeed," she iterated simply; "although I have hoped some time Mr. Lyon could see it so he would comprehend just how grotesque his faults appear to me. It might lessen his silly vanity and egotism just the least bit, for he fancies that every woman, perforce, must admire him, and that when he condescends to woo a conquest is inevitable. And yet he has much goodness and nobility that, however, I really believe, no person but myself had ever discovered."

When her guest finally left her he was mentally moralizing.

"These two have met," he cogitated, "only to prove the infallibility of a mysterious law of nature that may correctly be called the attraction of the opposite. She thoroughly detests the finical in man, and he abhors any aggressive mental ability in women. And yet I am sure she loves him passionately, and I am absolutely certain that he adores her. Perhaps her affection for him will make him more manly, and his passion for her will make her more womanly. If they marry, their temperaments may happily assimilate. She may become one of the most obedient of wives and he one of the most manful of husbands. She will very likely destroy that clever picture of our esthetic Dandy, now that I have seen it," he mentally concluded.

The supposition was not wrong.

At that moment Minerva St. John was standing before the caricature, holding the implements of destruction in hands that still hesitated to ruin what was really an artistic work.

"Possibly I can alter it," she was sighing, when Dandy Lyon stepped daintily across the threshold, suddenly and unseen.

He yet wore the regulation uniform of the esthetes that he had worshipped according to his lights. The girlish waves of his tawny, perfumed hair just touched the purple velvet collar of his spruce coat, on the lapel of which gleamed a rather large cluster of pale yellow blossoms. His dress, his movement, his manner, all were transcendently immaculate and irreproachable.

He instantly saw the uncovered caricature, and flushed crimson from the tip of his beardless chin to the bearded top of his intellectual forehead.

For a moment he curled the fastidious waxed ends of his pretty yellow mustache, with a motion expressive of vexation and resentment. But the nobler nature that Miss St. John had discerned and aroused conquered more ignoble emotions.

He went toward her with a humility that did not disparage his manhood. And she, in her confusion, blushed and blanched, very charmingly, although she was trembling with an almost hysterical alarm and shame.

"Since I first knew you," he began, with a serene voice that was most assuring, "I have often quoted: 'Oh, for some power the giftie gie us, To see oursel's as ithers see us!' I see myself now as you have seen me, and I am more grateful than annoyed. I love you so well that I had rather you would despise me than utterly ignore me."

"I do not despise you," she protested, her sweet eyes full of tears.

He regarded her for a silent second with an intense and masterful earnestness. She was very alluring, and her shy, disturbed countenance did not repel him.

"Minnie, darling," he proceeded, eagerly, "be my wife? You can make of me a husband worthy of your trust, I am sure. Your companionship has already made me a better and more manful man. Be mine, and thus 'accomplish thou my manhood,' dear."

Her answer was not nay. And all that remains of Dandy Lyon's esthetics is his beautiful and touching solicitude for his pleasant home, his fascinating wife and bonny children.

MULES AND MEN.

A mule, when once severely urged Just humped his shoulders and surged.

They reasoned with a vigor grim But never got a rise from him.

They beat his head and smote his flanks

And jerked his bit with awful yanks,

They barked his shins and eke, with jeers,

Put buzzing horseflies in his ears,

And yet without a bray or moan,

He stood as if carved out of stone.

A strong wise who happened by Upon the varmint cocked his eye.

"Give o'er," he cried, "these silly tricks;

This contumacious mule I'll fix"

Four stakes he chose, both thick and stout,

And drove them down the mule about.

Each leg he tied with thoughtful care

Tight to the stake which nestled there,

Then, climbing to the seat, elated,

He calmly lit his pipe and waited.

The mule surveyed the country near

With pensive eye and drooping ear,

Then lazily essayed to kick

A fly which vexed his withers thick.

He felt the rope, he jerked in vain,

He humped himself with might and main,

He reared, he writhed, he strained, he plunged,

He bent his back and madly lunged.

His sad eyes blazed with sudden fire;

He brayed aloud with mighty ire,

Then settled sternly down to work.

His freedom out with kick and jerk.

Ten minutes later down the road

A mule triumphantly hauled his load.

'Tis true that dangerously fast

The summer landscape flitted past

Yet fit it did—not ceased to flit

Until the stable door was shut,

But when they thanked the stranger

For the assistance which he gave

He only smiled and shook his head.

"A mule is like a man," he said.

HISTORIC BELL HAS FATAL DISEASE200 WORDS IS DOG VOCABULARY

What may prove to be the last ringing of the historic Liberty Bell took place in Independence Hall at Philadelphia recently.

In addition to sending the bell to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, it was decided to transmit its tones across the country to San Francisco over the recently completed transcontinental telephone line, partly fulfilling in a literal sense the prophetic words cast on the bell, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The bell was struck three times with mallets at intervals of five seconds. By an arrangement of three very sensitive transmitters which were suspended beneath it on rubber bands, so as to exclude all foreign vibrations, the tones were caught and clearly heard over the telephone wires on the Pacific coast. At the same time a phonographic record was made of the notes so as to preserve them for posterity.

This is the first time that the great bell has been sounded since it was cracked in 1835 while tolling the death of John Marshall, the first chief justice of the United States supreme court. The reason that it may never again be rung is that a new crack, more serious than the old one, has developed in it.

It has been found that the bell is afflicted with the "disease of metals." This is partly responsible for the appearance of the latest fissure, and has made it necessary to support the weight on padded props in order to relieve the stress which has gradually been pulling it apart.

The new crack is now plainly visible, while only a short time ago it was microscopic. It begins at the upper part of the original fracture, extending from the letter "P" in the word "Philadelphia," diagonally a quarter of the way round the circumference, to the letter "Y" in "Liberty," near the top. It is believed that the new crack might not have occurred had the bell been allowed to remain at rest after it was first broken. It has, however, been shipped on different occasions to New Orleans, Chicago, Atlanta, Charleston, Boston and St. Louis. That it is actually suffering from a malady known as the "disease of metals" is the description of its ailment in the technical phraseology of the metallurgist, and is not a popular figure of speech. The reason for this distemper is to be found in the history of the bell's casting.

It was originally made by Thomas Lester at London in 1752, and shipped to Philadelphia. When it was rung to try the sound it was cracked by the clapper. At first it was intended to return it to England, but subsequently two workmen, Hess and Stow, neither of whom was experienced in the art, undertook the recasting in Philadelphia. Obviously the bronze was too brittle, and in order to toughen it, they added approximately 10 per cent of copper to the original metal. When the bell was later rehung it was found that too much copper had been used, and, to the chagrin of every one, the tone was destroyed. The same men again undertook the work, and this time are supposed to have added tin to restore the tone. The third bell was accepted, but too much tin had been used and the tones were so highly resonant that it was seldom rung.

Reporter—Madam, you may recollect that we printed yesterday your denial of having retracted the contradiction of your original statement. Would you care to have us say that you were misquoted in regard to it?

Marvelous Aeroscope at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, Raises Amazed Visitors 264 Feet

FOR the seeker of amusement there is opportunity a-plenty in the great mechanical achievement, the aeroscope, on the Zone, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. The aeroscope is built on the order of a giant crane of a novel and intricate design, with a seating capacity of 100 and standing room for twenty more. The car is perfectly balanced, and perfect safety and a jarless ride of ten minutes are assured to passengers who enjoy this trip of 264 feet into the clouds. This is four feet higher than the Ferris wheel. Two motors control the ascent and descent in conjunction with the counterbalance of this huge car, and when it reaches its extreme height it begins to swing slowly around on the series of wheels at its base, giving the passenger a view of the surrounding country from every point.

game, which is sometimes called "invisible cats," is one of the numerous amusements in which a particular player has to be guided by the acuteness and accuracy of the sense of hearing. One player is blindfolded and seated in a chair in the middle of the room. At a call from him of "Pussy, come, walk," each of the company passes before him in turn. When the walker reaches the chair he utters a "Mew, mew," and the blindfolded player has to try to identify the speaker by his voice. Should he succeed, the other takes his place; should he fail, the signal is repeated, and another cat comes forward. Players may, if they choose, disguise the voice in saying "mew," but it is difficult enough to recognize the natural voice, and to add to the difficulty retards the game, and it is apt to grow tedious if played slowly.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION.

To the Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco, County of San Mateo, State of California, for the Grant of a Right, Privilege or Franchise, and of the Intention of Said Board of Trustees to Grant the Same.

Notice is hereby given that on the 17th day of May, 1915, The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, made a written application to the Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco, a municipality corporation in the County of San Mateo, State of California, for the grant of a certain right and privilege upon the terms and conditions set forth in a draft ordinance, a copy of which is in words and figures following, to-wit:

ORDINANCE NO. —

An Ordinance, Granting to _____, the Right to Place, Erect and Maintain Poles, Wires and Other Appliances and Conductors and to Lay Underground Conductors for Wires for the Transmission of Electricity for Telephone and Telegraph Purposes in, Upon, and Under the Streets, Alleys, Avenues, Thoroughfares and Public Highways, in the City of South San Francisco, State of California, and to Exercise the Privilege of Operating Telephone and Telegraph Instruments and of Doing a Telephone and Telegraph Business Within Said City of South San Francisco.

Whereas, All matters, acts, and things precedent to the granting of the franchise hereinafter set forth have heretofore happened, been done and performed in due form of law.

The Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco do ordain as follows:

Section 1. There is hereby granted by the City of South San Francisco to _____, the right and privilege to do a general telephone and telegraph business within said City of South San Francisco and to place, erect, lay and maintain and operate in and under the streets, alleys, avenues, thoroughfares and public highways within the City of South San Francisco, poles, wires and other appliances and conductors for the transmission of electricity for telephone and telegraph purposes; such wires and other appliances and conductors may be strung on poles and other fixtures above ground at the option of the said grantee, its successors, and assigns, or may be laid underground in pipes or conduits or otherwise protected, and such other apparatus may be used as may be necessary or proper to operate and maintain the same.

Section 2. Whenever wires are strung on poles, such poles shall be of height sufficient to carry the wires at a minimum height of twenty (20) feet above the ground. Wherever possible poles shall be set in the alleys of said City and shall be placed in such a manner as will least interfere with travel thereon. When conduits are used to convey wires, such conduits shall be placed, wherever possible, in the parking spaces between curbs and sidewalks, except where it is necessary to cross streets or alleys. Where poles are placed on streets they must be located as nearly as possible upon the prolongations of lines separating lots.

Section 3. It shall be lawful for said _____ to make all needful excavation in any such streets, alleys, avenues, thoroughfares and public highways in said City of South San Francisco for the purpose of placing, erecting, laying and maintaining poles or other supports or conductors for said wires or repairing, removing or replacing the same. Said work shall be done in compliance with the necessary rules, regulations, ordinances or orders which may, during the continuance of this franchise, be adopted from time to time by the Board of Trustees of said City of South San Francisco.

Section 4. Whenever _____ shall disturb any of the streets, for the purpose aforesaid, _____ shall restore the same to good order and condition as soon as practicable without unnecessary delay, and failing to do so the Board of Trustees of said City of South San Francisco shall have the right to repair and restore the streets within a reasonable time within which such repairs and restoration of streets shall be completed and upon failure of such repairs being made by said _____ the said Board of Trustees shall cause such repairs to be made at the expense of said _____.

Section 5. Nothing in this ordinance shall be construed in any way to prevent the proper authorities of said City of South San Francisco from seweraging, grading, planking, rockling, paving, repairing, altering, or improving any of the streets, alleys, avenues, thoroughfares and public highways or places within said City of South San Francisco or upon which the poles, wires or other conductors of said _____ shall be placed, but all such work or improvement shall be done, if possible, so as not to obstruct or prevent the free use of said poles, wires, conductors, conduits, pipes or other apparatus. Said City shall not be liable to said grantee for any necessary interruption of telephone and telegraph service while making such improvements or repairs.

Section 6. In consideration of the right and privileges hereby granted, the City of South San Francisco shall have and the said _____ hereby grants to it, during the life of this franchise, the right and privilege to place, where aerial construction exists, a fixture on the tops of poles erected and maintained under this franchise, to which may be attached wires not exceeding four, and where underground conduits exist the said grantee shall furnish said City of South San Francisco with one duct in its underground system, or two pairs of wires in underground cable free of charge to said City of South San Francisco to be used for low tension police and fire alarm purposes, it being understood that it shall be optional with the grantee as to whether two pairs of wires shall be given or a duct in the underground system; provided, however, that said City of South San Francisco shall in all cases maintain and support such fixtures, wires or ducts in conformity with the reasonable plans and rules of said grantee, so that there may be a minimum danger of contact between the said wires, cables, or ducts of said grantee, its successors or assigns; nor shall the wires of said City be unduly exposed to foreign electrical currents in excess of five thousand volts; and, provided, further, that in case of rearrangement of the said plant, the said City of South San Francisco will care for its own wires and construction, and will save the grantee harmless from any accidents caused by such construction.

Section 7. Said grantee hereby grants to said City of South San Francisco, during the term of this franchise, the use of three (3) telephones without cost to said City for an unlimited number of calls throughout the year, in which no toll or extra charge shall be required of any telephone subscriber of said grantee in said City of South San Francisco.

Section 8. The grantee of this franchise shall, upon the determination of the fact that _____ is the successful bidder, file a bond running to the City of South San Francisco, with at least two (2) good and sufficient sureties to be approved by said Board of Trustees, in the penal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000), conditioned, that such bidder shall well and truly observe, fulfil and perform each and every condition of said franchise, and that in case of any breach of condition of such bond, then the whole of said penal sum therein named shall be taken and be deemed to be liquidated damages, and shall be recoverable from the principal and sureties upon said bond; said bond shall be filed with the Board of Trustees within five days after this franchise is awarded, and before the final passage of this ordinance.

Section 9. The grantee of said franchise and privilege, _____ successors and assigns, must during the life of said franchise pay to the City of South San Francisco, two per cent (2 per cent) of the gross annual receipts of the said grantee, _____ successors and assigns, arising from the use, operation or possession of said franchise or privilege and any telephone or telegraph system to be constructed under and in pursuance of said franchise and privilege; provided, however, that no percentage shall be paid for the first five (5) years succeeding the date of the going into effect of the ordinance granting said franchise; and that thereafter such percentage shall be payable annually; and in event such payment is not made said franchise shall be immediately, upon the failure to make said payment, at the time the same shall fall due, by said grantee, _____ successors or assigns, forfeited.

Section 10. However, nothing in this ordinance shall be construed as releasing the said grantee from the proper compliance with any police rule or regulation, now in effect or which the public convenience or necessity may demand from time to time and which may be adopted by the Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco during the life of this franchise.

Section 11. The rights, privileges and franchise hereby granted shall continue to be in force for a period of twenty-five (25) years from and after the date on which this ordinance shall take effect.

Section 12. This ordinance shall be published once in "The Enterprise," a weekly newspaper published and circulated in the City of South San Francisco, and shall take effect and be in force from and after the expiration of thirty (30) days after the date of its publication.

That it is proposed by said Board of Trustees to grant said right, privilege and franchise upon the terms and conditions set forth in said draft ordinance; and

That the character of said right, privilege and franchise is fully described in the aforesaid draft ordinance, to which reference is hereby made, and that the term for which it is proposed to grant said right, privilege or franchise is twenty-five (25) years from and after the date on which the ordinance granting the same shall take effect; and

That sealed bids for the grant of said right, privilege or franchise will be received by said Board of Trustees and may be filed with the City Clerk of said City of South San Francisco up to the hour of eight (8) o'clock p.m. Monday, the 21st day of April, 1915; and that the successful bidder and his assigns must, during the life of said franchise, pay to said City of South San Francisco two (2) per cent of the gross annual receipts arising from the use, operation or possession of said right, privilege or franchise, as more fully expressed in Section 9 of the aforesaid ordinance, to which reference is hereby made; and

That the said Board of Trustees will meet in open session on Monday, the 21st day of June, 1915, at the hour of eight (8) o'clock p.m. at its chambers at No. 310 Linden Avenue in said City of South San Francisco, and will then and there open and read the said bids, and there open and read the said bids, and that said right, privilege or franchise will be struck off, sold and awarded to the person, firm or corporation who shall make the highest bid therefor, provided only that at the time of opening said bids, any responsible person, firm or corporation present or represented may bid for said right, privilege or franchise a sum not less than ten (10) per cent above the highest bid therefor, and said bid so made may be raised not less than ten (10) per cent by any other responsible bidder, and said bidding may so continue until said right, privilege or franchise shall be struck off, sold and awarded by said Board of Trustees to the highest bidder therefor in Gold Coin of the United States; and

That each sealed bid shall be accompanied with cash or a certified check payable to the Treasurer of said City of South San Francisco for the full amount of said bid, and no sealed bids will be considered unless said cash or check is enclosed therewith, and the successful bidder shall deposit at least ten (10) per cent of the amount of his bid with the City Clerk of said City of South San Francisco before the franchise shall be struck off to him; and if he shall fail to make such deposit immediately, then, and in that case his bid shall not be received and shall be considered as void, and the said franchise shall then and there be again offered for sale to the bidder who shall make the highest cash bid therefor, subject to the same conditions as to deposit as above mentioned, and such procedure shall be had until said franchise is struck off, sold and awarded to the bidder who shall make the necessary deposit of at least ten (10) per cent of the amount of his bid therefor as herein provided; and

That the successful bidder shall deposit with the City Clerk of the City of South San Francisco, within twenty-four (24) hours of the acceptance of his bid, the remaining ninety (90) per cent of the amount thereof; and in case he or it shall fail to do so, then the said deposit thereto made shall be forfeited and the award of said franchise shall be void; and the said franchise shall then and there be offered for sale to the highest bidder therefor; in the same manner under the same restrictions as hereinbefore provided; and in case said bidder shall fail to deposit with the City Clerk of said City of South San Francisco the remaining ninety (90) per cent of his bid, within twenty-four (24) hours after its acceptance, the award to him of said franchise shall be set aside and the deposit thereto made by him shall be forfeited; and

That the successful bidder for said right, privilege or franchise shall, within five (5) days after said right, privilege or franchise shall have been struck off, sold and awarded, file a bond running to said City of South San Francisco, with at least two (2) good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said Board of Trustees, in the penal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000), conditioned, that such bidder shall well and truly observe, fulfil and perform each and every term and condition of said right, privilege or franchise, and that in case of any breach of condition of such bond, then the whole of said penal sum therein named shall be taken and be deemed to be liquidated damages, and shall be recoverable from the principal and sureties upon said bond.

and shall be recoverable from the principal and sureties upon said bond.

Reference is hereby made for further particulars to the application of The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, for the grant of a certain right, privilege or franchise, filed with the City Clerk of said City of South San Francisco on the 17th day of May, 1915; to the order and resolution of said Board of Trustees, adopted on the 17th day of May, 1915, declaring its intention to grant said right, privilege or franchise, and directing the publication of this notice, which said resolution is now on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City of South San Francisco; and to an act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved March 22, 1905, entitled "An act providing for the sale of street railroad and other franchises in counties and municipalities, and providing conditions for the granting of such franchises by the legislative or other governing bodies, and repealing conflicting acts," and the amendments to said act, and said application, order and resolution and acts of the Legislature of the State of California are expressly made a part of this notice.

FRATERNAL ORDERS

(By Harry Edwards.)

We are told in holy writ that "The man who careth not for his own is worse than an infidel." The Nazarene thus directed us: "Help ye one another. Feed the hungry. Clothe the poor."

How can we help one another unless we know each other's needs; unless we come together, organize and fraternal? Our fraternal societies are feeding the hungry and clothing the poor to the extent of one hundred million dollars per year. It would be impossible to spend this amount of money without some organization, and the lodge or fraternal order is nothing more or less than organization for this purpose. We would not like to take the place of the minister who has induced the poor laboring member of his church to abstain from supporting fraternal orders, who, should his advice be accepted, would realize future difficulties; whose wife, after his death, must take to the washtub and his children to the streets. He probably is conscientious in his teachings, but he should stop and ponder over the results of the same. If the minister was placed in such a position that he could enter the home where sickness or death has entered and say, "We not only pray for you, but protect you, care for you and your family as long as life shall last or necessity require."

May we say that, did such a condition exist, the churches would be the most popular organizations to-day, and in their way fulfill the demand for assistance, financial and otherwise, absolutely necessary for the upkeep of the home and education of the family when the bread-winner has left for the other world. We believe in the teachings of the Nazarene, and if faithful to our pledges taken before the altar of any order located in South San Francisco, may we say:

Then when moons and stars and planets have dissolved and left their spheres; We will dwell in light forever, Free from darkness, doubts and fears.

F. O. E.

Reports received by wireless state that the social dance given by the F. O. E. Tuesday evening last was the finest ever brought off by the local aerie. It may be well to remember that the social virtues are one of the mainstays of this order and do not affect its financial standing on general account. The cost for such an entertainment must come from social funds. To this fund the members are not called on to pay one cent from their dues, and therefore it is necessary to give a general entertainment once in a while to provide for a social time free. We acknowledge the fact that the residents have never failed us when asked to the pay-as-you-enter propositions, and hope that in the future, as in the past, such social times may be provided, believing they will prove to our mutual benefit.

I. O. F.

(By George W. Hagedorn.)

A well-attended meeting of Court Violet, No. 1453, I. O. F., was held Tuesday evening in Metropolitan Hall.

An invitation from the Woman's Club to participate in the entertainment to be held June 4th was received, and the entertainment committee was notified to lend its assistance in making a success of the entertainment. All Foresters and Companions are requested to attend.

The applications for the July class are rolling in and the team captains are working hard. A large class is assured.

The entertainment committee has announced that the indoor picnic will be held Tuesday evening, June 8th, in Metropolitan Hall. Everything is free. Children must be accompanied by their parents. Beautiful prizes, games and music. This will be a night for the children of South San Francisco. Everybody is welcome and a great time is assured all who attend.

In many communities the opportunities for social fellowship and recreation on equal terms are limited. Man, being a human being, likes to meet his fellows. Join a fraternal organization, enjoy life while you live and protect your family at the same time.

In the supreme secretary's statement for December we find this interesting item: Interest, $1,136,629.17. In 1894 the accumulated funds reached $1,000,000 in twenty years. The interest earned in one year is more than the total funds of twenty years ago. This must be gratifying to every member.

What Did All Those Autos Mean?

(By W.)

One of the most instructive and uplifting meetings that have been held in a long time was held at Lodge Hall on last Monday evening when the Fraternal Brotherhood was host to about thirty visiting sisters and brothers from San Francisco, and also initiated an interested class into the mysteries of the order.

Among the visitors were our supreme vice-president, J. Morgan Duke, and his wife. Brother Duke's address was listened to with intense interest, as was also an address from Brother Stone, a lawyer of San Francisco, and also president of Mission Lodge, T. F. B.

The pleasure of hearing other prominent visitors had to be foregone on account of the lateness of the hour. After enjoying refreshments and a social time, the many autos that had been waiting at the bank corner carried a merry crowd back to their homes.

No Place for Him.

An Irishman was on trial, charged with assaulting a neighbor and fracturing his skull. During the trial several physicians testified that the man's skull was very thin—in medical terms, a "paper skull."

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced?" asked the judge.

"No, your lordship, but I should like to ask just one question."

"What is it?"

"What was a man with a skull like that doing at a Tipperary fair?"

"WAYSIDE NOTES ALONG THE OGDEN ROUTE."

For the guidance of tourists and other travelers, especially those coming west to the California expositions, the Southern Pacific Company is distributing free an illustrated booklet, "Wayside Notes Along the Ogden Route." It is intended to give strangers in the west accurate information about the cities, towns and various districts through which the train passes on its way from Ogden to San Francisco.

"Merely to ride over this territory is to bring one into better understanding of the men who wrested the country from the Indian, the buffalo and the sage," declares the booklet.

The notes begin with a description—necessarily brief, of course—of Ogden, giving the altitude, population and distance to San Francisco, the railroads which have termini and connections in the Utah city, and such information as that dealing with its churches, schools, streets, industries, side-trips, stage lines and rail fares. The same method is followed with reference to other cities along the line through to San Francisco. The main purpose of the book is to anticipate questions and to indicate to passengers features of the route and points of interest as seen from the car window.

On each of the fourteen pages are five or six views, arranged as if printed from a motion picture film, of scenes of especial interest as a supplement to the accompanying text.

Altogether, "Wayside Notes" contain just such information about the Ogden route as the railroad company believes passengers will appreciate.

Why He Waited.

Speechless with wrath, a little man was ushered into the police court the other day. An ornament of the police force had found him loitering about and had arrested him as a suspicious character.

"What were you doing at the time of your arrest?" asked the weary magistrate.

"Simply waiting!" spluttered the prisoner.

"What were you waiting for?"

"My money."

"Who owed you the money?"

"The man I had been waiting for."

"What did he owe it to you for?"

"For waiting."

The magistrate took his glasses off and glared at the prisoner.

"Do not jest with me," he said.

"Now, tell me, have you a trade?"

"Of course I have."

"Then what is it?"

"I'm a waiter."

The Silver Lining.

He was a Scot, with the usual thrifty characteristics of his race. Wishing to know his fate, he telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the lady of his choice. After waiting all day at the telegraph office, he received an affirmative answer late at night.

"Well, if I were you," said the operator who delivered the message,

"I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl who kept me waiting so long for an answer."

"Na, na," replied the Scot. "The lass for me is the lass who waits for the night rates."

It was in the campaign of 1860, when Stephen A. Douglas was running for president, and Beverly Tucker was one of his ardent supporters. They had dined in company and the wine had flowed freely. Hav-

First-class brands of CIGARS and TOBACCOES always on hand. 22½ Grand avenue.

"O H, joy; I'm having the time of my life!" gurgles the foul, insanitary sink. "Me, too!" chortles the skeleton of disease and death in ghoulish glee. They dance a beautiful, fast and furious tango together. Stop it! Watch your kitchen sink. Make it behave. Buy a new, clean one if you have to. Talk to us about the importance of clean, sanitary kitchen plumbing.

Phone

Promptness

WE'RE live wire butchers. We help you save time.

If you have a phone use it to order your meat supplies. You'll find we are exact on this end of the wire.

Phone orders are carefully received and as carefully put up as though you stood right by us.

Some butchers don't want to be bothered with orders over the wire. They say it's too much trouble, and mistakes occur too often.

But you heard us say we're live wires, didn't you?
